THIS WEEKEND FOR THE TIGERS

No. 14 Princeton Tigers 25-0 (9-0 Ivy)	Yale Bulldogs 12-12 (6-4 Ivy)	Brown Bears 10-14 (4-6 Ivy)

The Week that Was

- The Tigers extended their Ivy League record start to 25-0 (9-0 Ivy) with a pair of wins over Dartmouth (W, 70-31) and Harvard (W, 78-57).
- Princeton limited Dartmouth to just 31 points - the lowest total it has held an opponent to this season.
- The Big Green managed just 10 field goals and shot a paltry 18.9 percent from the floor, both season-lows for a Princeton opponent this year.
- Three different Tigers scored in double figures, led by Alex Wheatley with 20 points on 10-of-12 shooting.
- Annie Tarakchian narrowly missed out on a triple-double, posting 11 points, 14 rebounds and eight assists.
- Michelle Miller had 12 points on 6-of-11 shooting.
- Overcoming a slow start against Harvard, the Tigers turned a nine-point halftime lead into a 21-point margin of victory.
- Shooting just 30.8 percent in the first half, Princeton connected on 61.5 percent of its field goal attempts in the final 20 minutes.
- Blake Dietrick led all scorers with 23 points, eight assists and five rebounds.
- Hitting eight of her 12 shot attempts, Tarakchian recorded her fourth straight double-double with 17 points and 14 rebounds.
- Pulling down a season-high 53 rebounds against both Dartmouth and Harvard, Princeton posted a +24.0 rebounding margin on the weekend.
- The Tigers shot 48.6 percent from the field in two games, while averaging 20.0 assists.
- Dartmouth and Harvard shot a combined 28.7 percent from the field with a 22.0 percent clip from behind the three-point line.

On the Cusp

- Eight-year head coach Courtney Banghart is currently tied with Joan Kowalik (163) for the most coaching wins in program history.

- Her career .709 career winning percentage is the highest in Princeton women's basketball history (163-66).
- Since her arrival in 2007-08, the Tigers are 87-17 against the Ivy League.
- Capturing the Ivy League title in four of the last five years, the Tigers have earned five consecutive postseason berths, while becoming the first Ivy squad to reach four-straight NCAA Tournaments (2010-13).
- The No. 9 seed in 2012 and 2013, Princeton was the No. 11 and No. 12 seed in 2011 and 2010, respectively, representing the highest seeds an Ivy League team has earned.

Fourth Time's a Charm

- Annie Tarakchian has posted four straight and a team-high nine double-doubles on the season.
- Tarakchian has four Ivy League Player of the Week awards this year.
- On Feb. 23, she became the third Tiger in 2014-15 to be named the CollegeSportsMadness.com Ivy POTW.
- In two games against Dartmouth and Harvard, Tarakchian averaged 14.0 points and 14.0 rebounds.
- Currently leading the conference in three-point shooting (50.6), Tarakchian is second in rebounding (9.3) and ranked fourth in field goal percentage (48.6).

Swan Song

- This weekend's games could be the last for the Class of 2015 in Jadwin Gymnasium.
- Princeton's four seniors will be honored in a pregame ceremony prior to Saturday's showdown with Brown.
- Together, Blake Dietrick, Alex Rodgers, Jess Shivers and Mariah Smith have helped the Tigers to a 92-21 (0.814) overall record since 2011.
- Princeton has posted a 47-4 (0.922) conference mark since their arrival, while helping the Orange & Black capture league titles in 2011-12 and 2012-13.
- The Class of 2015 has amassed a 42-5 (0.894) home record since 2011-12.

Leading the Pack

- In the midst of a stellar senior season, Blake Dietrick has earned a spot on the Nancy Lieberman watch list and the Naismith Trophy Midseason 30.
- The Nancy Lieberman award is presented every year to the best point guard in the nation, while the Naismith Trophy is awarded annually to the best men's and women's college basketball players.
- Averaging career-highs in points (14.8), assists (5.1) and rebounds (4.9) per game, Dietrick is shooting a career-best 48.0 percent from the field.
- Dietrick has been named the Ivy League Player of the Week on five occasions this season.
- Dietrick has picked up three CollegeSportsMadness.com Ivy Player of the Week laurels in 2014-15.
- She is the only player in program history to be named the USBWA National Player of the Week, garnering her second honor from the organization on Jan. 6.
- Dietrick currently ranks first in the Ivy League in assists per game (5.2), is third in three-point shooting (43.0), and fifth in assist-to-turnover ratio (1.7), scoring (14.8) and field goal percentage (48.0).

Climbing the Ladder

- Princeton is currently ranked No. 14 in both the Associated Press Top-25 and USA Today Coaches Poll.
- Princeton is the only team in Ivy League history to be ranked in both polls at the same time.
- The Tigers are the first conference team to be ranked in the USA Today Coaches Poll.
- The Orange and Black's No. 14 AP ranking is the highest in conference history.
- In 2011-12 Princeton became the first Ivy team to be nationally ranked, finishing No. 24 in the final AP poll. The Tigers also received votes in each of the final nine coaches polls that season.
- The Orange and Black are also slotted No. 18 in the latest NCAA RPI rankings and No. 7 in the Jeff Sagarin/CBN Women's Basketball ratings.

Superb Start

- The Tigers extended their Ivy League women's basketball record start to 25-0.
- Only the 1970-71 Penn men's team had more consecutive victories to open a season, going 28-0.
- Princeton has bested what had previously been the longest win streak in program history (21) set in 2009-10.
- The Tigers are one win away from tying the program record for victories in a season (26) also set in 2009-10.
- Alongside the University of Kentucky's men's team (28-0), the Tigers are one of just two remaining unbeaten teams in Division I Men's or Women's Basketball.

Out in Front

- Princeton has made quick work of its opponents this season, winning all but two of its games by double digits.
- The Tigers' largest margin of victory is a 71-point triumph over Portland St. (Dec. 19). Princeton's largest Ivy win came by way of a 50-point victory over Harvard on Jan. 30.
- Princeton has won 15 of its games by at least 20 points.
- The Tigers have built a lead of at least 20 on 21 occasions.

- The league's most potent offense, Princeton currently leads the Ivy in points per game (77.6), FG percentage (49.7), 3PT percentage (41.4), and assists (17.1).
- The Tigers also top the conference in rebounding margin (+11.7), are second in blocks (4.5) and third in steals (8.8).
- Princeton leads the league in scoring defense (51.5), opponent three-point percentage (25.8), and opponent field goal percentage (33.6)
- Dietrick currently ranks first in the Ivy League in assists per game (5.2), is third in three-point shooting (43.0), and fifth in assist-to-turnover ratio (1.7), scoring (14.8) and field goal percentage (48.0).
- Alex Wheatley currently leads the Ivy League in shooting percentage (59.8).
- Currently leading the conference in three-point shooting (50.6), Annie Tarakchian is second in rebounding (9.3) and ranked fourth in field goal percentage (48.6).
- Michelle Miller ranks second in three-point percentage (45.9) and is seventh in field goal percentage (47.5).
- Taylor Williams is tied for fourth in the conference in blocks per game (1.2). She matched a career-high by swatting five shots against Pittsburgh on Nov. 14.

Scouting Yale

- Princeton is 52-30 all-time against Yale.
- With a 56-50 victory over the Bulldogs earlier this season, the Tigers improved to 13-2 against Yale under eight-year head coach Courtney Banghart.
- Princeton's six-point win marked the smallest margin of victory for the Tigers this season.
- A one possession game in the final minute, Annie Tarakchian put back a Michelle Miller miss to extend the lead to five.
- Tarakchian finished with a double-double with 14 points and 11 rebounds. Alex Wheatley led all scorers with 18 points.
- Shooting 45.2 percent as a team, the Tigers held Yale to 30.0 percent shooting (21-70).
- Entering this weekend's competition with a 12-12 (6-4 Ivy) record, the Bulldogs put the brakes on a four-game losing skid with a 67-57 win over Columbia.
- Whitney Wyckoff netted a career-high 18 points on 8-of-13 shooting against the Lions. Wyckoff currently leads the Bulldogs in league play with 9.6 points and 2.5 assists per game.
- Emmy Allen posted a double-double against Columbia with 15 points and 10 rebounds.
- Yale is currently second in the Ivy in offensive rebounds with 14.3 per contest.

Scouting Brown

- Princeton is 40-30 all-time against Brown.
- The Tigers' 86-58 win over the Bears on Feb. 13 upped the team's mark against Brown to 14-1 under Courtney Banghart.
- Six different Tigers scored in double figures, led by Blake Dietrick with 18 points, seven rebounds and four assists.
- Shooting 48.3 percent from the floor and 46.7 percent from three, Princeton held Brown to 33.3 percent shooting.
- Having dropped three of four, the Bears are 10-14 on the year with a 4-6 Ivy record.
- Jordin Alexander leads the team in scoring with 15.5 ppg. Sophie Bikofsky is averaging 12.9 points and 4.7 rebounds in 24 appearances.

COURTNEY BANGHART HEAD COACH • 8TH SEASON/DARTMOUTH '00

Courtney Banghart recently wrapped up her seventh season as head coach of the Princeton women's basketball team. She has turned the program into a dominating force in the Ivy League and in the region, bringing the national spotlight on the Tigers.

Inheriting a team that had never played in the NCAA tournament, Banghart has led the squad there in four of the last five years, and the No. 11, 12, 9 and 9 seeds that she has taken Princeton into the tournament with are the four best in Ivy League history. She has also been on eight of the last 16 teams to win the Ivy League championship, with two as a player at Dartmouth, two as an assistant coach for the Big Green and four as the head coach at Princeton.

Last season, Banghart helped guide the Tigers to their fifth-straight 20-win season. Despite falling to the University of Pennsylvania on the last day of the regular season, Princeton earned its fifth-consecutive (sixth overall) postseason bid, eventually advancing to the second round of the WNIT.

Led by first-team All-Ivy selection Blake Dietrick, second-team performer Kristen Helmstetter and honorable mention selection Alex Wheatley, the Tigers ranked amongst the league's leaders in several team categories. Topping the conference charts in scoring offense (75.7 ppg), scoring margin (+11.6), field goal percentage (.474), assists (16.1) and rebounding margin (+9.4), Princeton finished second in the Ivy in field goal percentage defense (.377), three-point shooting (.366), three-point defense (.310) and blocks (4.0) and third in scoring defense (64.1).

Back in 2012-13 the Orange and Black earned an NCAA tournament berth after winning its fourth-consecutive outright Ivy League title, the first time any school has accomplished that since the league went to the double round-robin format back in 1982-83. The Tigers (22-7, 13-1 Ivy) were also the first-ever Ivy program to advance to the NCAA tournament in four-successive years.

For the third-straight season, Banghart coached the unanimous Ivy League Player of the Year (Addie Micir in 2011, Niveen Rasheed, 2012, 2013). Princeton also had Lauren Polansky pick up an unprecedented third-consecutive Ivy Defensive Player of the Year award. Rasheed was also a unanimous first-team All-Ivy selection, while Megan Bowen and Kristen Helmstetter were named to the second team in their first years as full-time starters. The 2012-13 season also marked a personal milestone season for Banghart, as she won her 100th career game as Tiger head coach.

In 2011-12 Princeton was the first-ever Ivy women's program to earn a national ranking. The Tigers finished the year ranked No. 24 in the AP Top 25 Poll, in addition to remaining in the top-5 all season in the Collegeinsider.com Mid Major Poll. Princeton went 24-5 on the year and won the 2012 Ivy League Championship for the third consecutive season behind its second perfect 14-0 Ivy record in three years. The Tigers earned a No. 9 seed, the highest seed ever for an Ivy program, into the NCAA Tournament, but fell in the first round to Kansas State, who lost in the second round to Final Four participant UConn. Entering the NCAA Tournament, Princeton was riding a 17-game winning streak and the Tigers were the only DI men's or women's team to defeat all conference opponents by double figures.

Niveen Rasheed '13 catapulted into the spotlight after missing much of the previous season due to injury, earning unanimous Ivy Player of the Year and All-Ivy First Team honors. She was also named a Full Court Mid-Major First Team All-America, ECAC First Team All-Star and a Net Scout All-America Honorable Mention. Lauren Polansky '13 was named Defensive Player of the Year for the second consecutive season, while senior Lauren Edwards '12 was named a Lowe's Senior Class Award Second Team All-American and a unanimous selection for All-Ivy First Team. Devona Allgood '12 earned her third consecutive All-Ivy recognition, being named to the second team. Banghart also earned national recognition, being named to the USBWA Coach of the Year Watch List.

In 2010-11, the Tigers once again dominated the Ivy League going 13-1 to be crowned champion for the second consecutive season. Princeton posted a 24-5 overall record, and earned the No. 12 seed in the NCAA Tournament and faced Georgetown in the first round, falling to the eventual Sweet 16 program. Addie Micir '11 was named the unanimous Ivy League Player of the Year, the first time a Tiger has captured the award. In addition, Lauren Polansky '13 was named the Ivy League Defensive Player of the Week. Three players were named first-team All-Ivy League, marking the first time in history Princeton had three first-team players in a single season. The 2010-11 program had 13 wins at home, a program record, and led the league in nine of 12 statistical categories, including: scoring defense, scoring margin, field goal percentage, field goal percentage defense, three-point field goal percentage, rebounding margin, blocked shots, assists, and turnover margin. In addition, the Tigers are currently riding a 22-game home winning streak, the eighth longest home court winning streak in the NCAA.

The 2009-10 squad finished the season with a 26-3 overall record and a perfect 14-0 mark in the Ivy League to reach the NCAA Tournament for the first time in program history. The team set numerous records during the year including: most wins in a season (26), winning 25 of those 26 games by double figures, most Going 14-0 in the Ivy League has happened just three other times, but the Tigers can boast that they won all 14 games by 11 or more points. Princeton also received the highest seed in the NCAA Tournament by an Ivy League team grabbing the No. 11 seed and also received the most votes by an Ivy team in the national poll. The Tigers recorded the program's first 4-0 sweep of Dartmouth and Harvard and earned five All-Ivy League honors, the most received by the Tigers in a season. Freshman Niveen Rasheed became just the second Princeton player to be named the Ivy League Rookie of the Year, after she won nine Rookie of the Week honors during the season.

The 2008-09 team was predicted to finish seventh in the Ivy League, but Tigers closed out the season in third place with a 9-5 Ivy League record. It marked the second time in 10 years that the team finished with a league record of over .500, with those five losses being by a combined 20 points. Princeton finished its season 14-14 overall, with 11 of those losses to teams that made the postseason. The Tigers swept four Ivy League teams, finished second in the league in scoring defense, led the league in blocks and assists, and had three players named All-Ivy.

Banghart's first recruiting class ranked No. 74 in the All-Star Girls Report, including a player that ranked No. 41 in the ESPNU HoopGurlz 100. Two of those freshmen were on the five-member Ivy League All-Rookie team.

Prior to coming to Princeton, Banghart spent four years as an assistant coach at her alma mater Dartmouth College, from 2003-07.

In her four seasons as an assistant coach under longtime Big Green mentor Chris Wielgus, Banghart helped Dartmouth to two Ivy League Championships and two NCAA Tournament appearances in 2005 and 2006. The Big Green had an overall record of 70-44 in those four seasons and was 41-15 in Ivy League play.

She has coached two Ivy League Player of the Year recipients, one Rookie of the Year, one Defensive Player of the Year, as well as nine first-team all-Ivy picks, six second-team selections, and five honorable mention players. She also helped to recruit five players that made it on the Ivy League all-rookie team.

As both a coach and a player, Banghart was made six trips to the NCAA Tournament, one trip to the preseason WNIT and two trips to the postseason WNIT.

Banghart was four-year letterwinner for the Big Green, from 1996-2000. A three-year starter, she was an integral part of two Ivy League Championship teams in her junior and senior years. She was named first-team all-Ivy League in 1999 and 2000, and was a member of the all-Ivy League rookie team in 1997.

Banghart owned the arc at Dartmouth, sinking a program record 273 career three-pointers. She still holds the record for triples in a season with 97, which earned her the Ed Seitz Award, as the best three-point shooter in Division I women's basketball in 1999. Her personal best was eight three-pointers in one game. Banghart showed her skill, as one of eight participants that were invited to compete in the NCAA 3-Point/Slam Dunk contest televised on ESPN.

She earned a bachelor's degree in neuroscience in 2000, and a master's degree in writing and leadership development in 2007.

Between her stints at Dartmouth, Banghart worked at Episcopal High School in Alexandria, Va. She was head coach of both the girls' basketball and tennis teams, guiding each to league championships, and was also the girls' athletic director.

A native of Amherst, N.H., Banghart is the ninth head coach in Princeton women's basketball history as the program.

She has been inducted into the New England Basketball Hall of Fame and the Dartmouth College Hall of Fame. She was also named the 2010 New Jersey Sports Writers Association Women's College Coach of the Year.
